Volume II, Issue 21

“For this reason God gave them up to vile passions. For even their women exchanged natural use for what is against nature. Likewise also the men, leaving their natural use of the woman, burned in their lust for one another, men with men committing what is shameful, and receiving in themselves the penalty of their error which was due.” (Romans 1:26-27)

“The Pentagon’s officially embracing homosexuality is nothing less than shameful.” –Dave only repeal the “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell” (DADT) policy, but now it has also decided to celebrate Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, & Transgender (LGBT) Pride Month.

So why is this even an issue? Because the US military, beginning with the US Army, was founded on biblical principles as we will see in the “From the Founders” page. The military was once considered an institution of the highest moral standards. In modern history it has become a type of social Petri dish. The Truth Watch is focusing on homosexuality because the military has decided to celebrate it. If we are to maintain a moral equivalency, should not the military celebrate adultery?

The Department of Defense (DOD) has decided to not

Both are violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) as it is written. In fact this writer proposed in a past article that Congress would have to make sodomy legal in the military. Otherwise, commanders would be forced to overlook a clear violation of the UCMJ (not unlike many do presently when it comes to adultery).

The aletheia truth of the matter is both adultery and homosexuality are abominations in the eyes of God. For the military to embrace both means it not only rejects biblical moral standards, but also it is aligning itself to reflect the current cultural rot. General George Washington would disapprove of both...

FROM THE FOUNDERS

General George Washington expected his officers and soldiers to adhere to and live by biblical moral standards. To even entertain the notion that the General would celebrate LGBT Pride Month is not only a stretch of the imagination, it can also be disproved historically.

"The General hopes and trusts that every officer and man, will endeavor so to live, and act, as becomes a Christian Soldier defending the dearest Rights and Liberties of his country." General George Washington, Continental Army General Order, July 9, 1776.

General George Washington not only would not celebrate LGBT Pride Month, he also made sure those guilty of homosexuality were summarily “drummed out” of the Army. As reported by David Barton at Wallbuilders.com, Washington issued the following general order on March 14, 1778:

At a General Court Martial whereof Colo. Tupper was President (10th March 1778), Lieutt. Enslin of Colo. Malcom's Regiment [was] tried for attempting to commit sodomy, with John Monhort a soldier; Secondly, For Perjury in swearing to false accounts, [he was] found guilty of the charges exhibited against him, being breaches of 5th. Article 18th. Section of the Articles of War and [we] do sentence him to be dismiss'd [from] the service with infamy. His Excellency the Commander in Chief approves the sentence and with abhorrence and detestation of such infamous crimes orders Lieutt. Enslin to be drummed out of camp tomorrow morning by all the drummers and fifers in the Army never to return; The drummers and fifers [are] to attend on the Grand Parade at Guard mounting for that Purpose.

Homosexuals serving openly in the military was not opposed by only our most famous Revolutionary War general, but also one of our most famous modern generals:

"The impact on the Army's public image would also endanger recruitment and retention." General Norman Schwarzkopf, addressing homosexuals openly serving in the military.

Homosexuals serving openly in the military is not acceptable, even if society says so.

FROM THE PULPIT

“This is the first time in American history where something that has been considered a sin ever since our founding is now considered to be okay. I am reminded of the Prophet Isaiah who warns to beware of the nation that calls good evil, and evil good. This is a major change in our culture.” Brigadier General and retired Chaplain Douglas Lee, Director of the Presbyterian and Reformed Joint Commission of Chaplains and Military Personnel.

Chaplain Lee in his radio interview rightly states that the military is a microcosm of American life. He also believes that DADT would not have been repealed had it been up to the military. Chaplain Lee states that the military is by nature more conservative than society and that parents rightly believed they could send their children to the military in hopes of being taught morals and citizenship.

The interviewer Kevin Swanson makes the connection with the sexualization of the military to the downfall of the ancient Persian empire as its military brought their paramours to battle with them against Alexander the Great and his conquering Greek army.

Chaplain Lee has assured Americans that evangelical chaplains will stay the course and face whatever persecution may come by standing on biblical principle when it comes to homosexuality.

The onus of implementing the repeal of DADT will ultimately rest on the unit commanders. What does that mean? It means it will basically fall on the beliefs of the commander under the guidance of legal advice from the Judge Advocate General (JAG). As a whole the JAG is a liberal body so it would not be unlikely that commanders could fall on the side of the homosexual soldier and against a chaplain opposed to homosexuality.

The one thing the Obama Administration has not considered in depth is it focused primarily on evangelical chaplains, which is the majority of military chaplains. However, Islam is much more staunchly opposed and intolerant of homosexuality than any Protestant denomination. What will Muslim chaplains tell Muslim soldiers who will no doubt be openly opposed to serving with homosexuals?

TO THE STREETS

WE the People, through our elected Congressional members and the President, are the final arbiters of the status of the military. How so? If we do not like the course our military is on, then we can let our elected officials know of our displeasure. This is not something that can happen overnight, but as is the case with any legislation, we can direct or redirect the course of our nation. Here's a few suggestions how:

1. Contact the Department of Defense and let them know you are opposed to both the repeal of DADT and DOD celebration of LGBT Pride Month.
2. Contact your elected Representative and Senators and address your concerns about the repeal of DADT and the DOD upcoming LGBT Pride Month celebration.
3. Contact the Obama Administration and register your complaint about Barack Obama declaring June as LGBT Pride Month.
4. As Chaplain Lee said in his interview, if your teenager is considering a career in the military, as parents you must have a serious conversation about what he or she is about to face.
5. Additionally, Chaplain Lee makes the key point that Christian parents must teach their children the biblical precepts and principles against homosexuality and for biblical marriage. It is up to parents to teach their children these principles; society certainly won't do it.

Patriots, this is more than just an issue of gays openly serving in the military. It is about keeping our culture from pressing down the gas pedal on this highway to hell we are on. Our republic and its founding document the US Constitution are grounded in biblical principles. Our Declaration of Independence declares that our rights come from God and that all powers must be linked to "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God."

And as the late Dr. Adrian Rogers so rightly states, "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God are simply stated...God's laws."
