

The Truth

Aletheia Group weekly newsletter

Volume III, Issue 13

“For the Father judges no one; but has committed all judgment to the Son.” (John 5:22)

“The rulings from the Supreme Court on traditional marriage were the last straw for this citizen. I refuse to bow down at the steps of the US Supreme Court when it continuously spews out godless edicts that violate the Laws of Nature and Nature’s God. It is past time to reel in these black-robed rogues.” –Dave

The Supreme Court of the United States of American as for all intents and purposes become worthless and a threat to our liberty. We can no longer allow it to function in its present state. Congress must act to stop it.

There are six justices who have demonstrated that the US Constitution is not the standard by which they rule on cases brought before the court. Chief Justice John Roberts, Associate Justices Anthony Kennedy, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Stephen Breyer, Sonia Sotomayor, and Elena Kagan have used a varying means of jurisprudence that is void of any the Framers’ original constitutional intent.

Some of my readers will no doubt make the case that Justices Antonin Scalia, Clarence Thomas, and Samuel Alito are also void of this necessary attribute (of which some case can be made), but I am comfortable in declaring that if the other justices modeled themselves after the three most conservative justices, we would be galaxies closer to what was initially envisioned.

As I wrote in the Aletheia pamphlet “Ravaging the Republic,” the Supreme Court and the lower courts of “The Judiciary Branch [were] designed to be the weaker of the three branches and was to cause no harm to the other branches.”

If indeed the judiciary branch fails to perform its duties in a constitutional manner, then the executive branch would be our proponent. Additionally, the legislative branch, if functionally properly as constitutionally designed, our current Supreme Court would be mindful of the power invested in Congress and would not think itself a conclusive means of legislative oversight.

It is WE the People who are the last and ultimate authority over all three branches.

FROM THE FOUNDERS

Not only is the amendment process burdensome, but also the implementation of our Constitution is greatly hindered by men driven by corruption and/or cowardice.

“However uncharitable it may appear, yet I must tell my opinion - that the most unworthy characters may get into power.. Let us suppose - for the case is supposable, possible, and probable - that you happen to deal those powers to unworthy hands... In such numerous bodies, there must necessarily be some designing, bad men.” (Patrick Henry, Anti-Federalist Papers, arguing against ratification of the US Constitution)

Mr. Henry's fears were that the states, even the majority of states, would be left without any power because the constitutional amendment proposing and ratifying process could be stopped by a small minority of states represented by corrupt men.

The reason we have a runaway judiciary is because we have a Congress that runs away from its constitutional responsibilities.

I have called for the impeachment of one or more justices who usurp "on the authority of the legislature." Congress not only has the powers of impeachment and conviction of rogue justices, but it also has the authority to pass new legislation that overrules a ruling from the Supreme Court.

If ever one branch of government becomes too wieldy with or reaches beyond its enumerated powers, then it is up to the other two branches of government to oppose such abuse. The problem is all three branches have become perversions of their original intent.

It is just such wickedness many of the anti-Federalists feared and with good reason.

Such is the fallen nature of man...

FROM THE PULPIT

“The true Gospel is not preached where obedience to the moral law as the only rule of life is not insisted upon. Wherever there is a failure to do this in the instructions of any pulpit it will inevitably be seen that the hearers of such a mutilated Gospel will have very little conscience. We need more Boanerges or sons of thunder in the pulpit. We need men that will flash forth the law of God like livid lightning and arouse the consciences of men.” Charles G. Finney, from his article, “The Decay of Conscience,” December 4, 1873

How is it Americans have decided that the US Supreme Court is the ultimate arbiter of the law and any ruling they put forth becomes “the law of the land?” It is because we have forgotten what the basis of our law is. Look back to the familiar, yet often misunderstood words of our nation’s birth certificate, the Declaration of Independence:

“When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation” (italics added).

“...the Laws of Nature and of Nature’s God.” What is meant by that? The late, great Adrian Rogers simplified this phrase for us: “It is God’s law.” Where do we go to find God’s law? To His written word the Holy Bible. The Bible, regardless of what liberal theologians say or write, clearly condemns homosexuality as an abomination and a sin.

This means the US Supreme Court has sanctioned an abominable sin; that is homosexuality. It has gone as far to declare it a “right.” This is an obvious violation of God’s law and is by definition no law at all. The problem is the church has in part and parcel been silent on this subject. In some quarters, it has come out in support of gay marriage. Read carefully the words below:

“Things are different now. So often the contemporary church is a weak, ineffectual voice with an uncertain sound. So often it is an archdefender of the status quo. Far from being disturbed by the presence of the church, the power structure of the average community is consoled by the church's silent—and often even vocal—sanction of things as they are.”

Those words could have been penned yesterday. They are in fact from Dr. Martin Luther King’s 1963 “Letter From Birmingham Jail.” Some things never seem to change.

TO THE STREETS

Imagine the House of Representatives bringing articles of impeachment against a Supreme Court Justice to the Senate. What if the Senate were to impeach Chief Justice John Roberts for violating “good behavior” based on his egregious ruling in the ObamaCare case?

First, statist and the press (but I repeat myself) would become apoplectic because the courts are the holy grail of all things liberal.

Second, Democrats in Congress would demonize Republicans (assuming GOP leaders would allow such articles to go forth).

Most importantly, just the threat of impeachment, whether convicted by the Senate or not, would send the type of message that the Founders had originally intended.

So how do WE the People affect such an action upon our judicial system?

1. Make sure your congressional leaders understand their constitutional duties and powers when it comes to judicial oversight.
2. Start a conversation around the water cooler to test the constitutional knowledge of your colleagues. I've done this numerous times and it never ceases to amaze me how many do not know the constitutional restraints placed upon the courts.
3. Watch and share this video from Newt Gingrich on how to reign in the judiciary.
4. When it comes to “controversial” legislation, ask your congressional leaders to make such legislation exempt from judicial review. Then wait for their response. You may just get a chance to educate your elected representative.

Here at The Truth Watch we are preparing you “to insert factually accurate points and counter-points into political conversations with family, friends, neighbors, colleagues, talk radio and Letters to the Editor.” What better way to overcome the lie of judicial supremacy than to begin within our own sphere of influence? It is up to us to counter the decades of lies perpetrated on unsuspecting Americans and help return our country to its original moral foundations.

This copy is for your personal, noncommercial use.
If you intend to reprint this e-newsletter you must obtain permission prior to publication.
The Truth Newsletter is a for profit publication and is for subscribers only.
Please tell all your family and friends about The Truth Watch and invite them to join us.